

FITZSIMMONS WINS THE GREAT FIGHT

The Battle Came Off At Carson City, Nevada, As Scheduled, This Morning

The Battle Was a Vicious One, And The Fighting Was Fast And Furious

Carson City, March 17.—Fitzsimmons won from Corbett today in the fourteenth round. The blow that did the business landed over the heart and Corbett collapsed. The round lasted one minute and forty-five seconds.

The crowd yelled for "Sullivan," but John L. simply puffed on a Carson City cheroot. "One Eyed Connelly" was called for, and asked for a speech. He succeeded in getting into the ring, and said: "I am here to challenge the winner, and am still in the ring, although somewhat disfigured." Then Fitz heels Corbett and Corbett works his hand on Fitz's body like a piston rod.

Fourth round—Corbett rushes in and lands the left again on Fitz body and gets a stiff lift on the body. They are fighting with desperate energy. Corbett is making the severest fight, and is working systematically. They exchange lefts as time is called.

Fifth round—Corbett lands his left on Fitz jaw. Fitz blows have plenty of steam, but they are not as frequent as Corbett's. They clinch, and exchange compliments. With one hand loose, Corbett lands a very slow left. Fitz lands on Jim's neck. Jim throws a short half round on Fitz nose, drawing first blood. Corbett has the best of the round, and his advantage is decided.

Fitz Wrestles Corbett.

Sixth round—They clinch and Fitz tries to wrestle Corbett down. Oris of "Oh, Oh," are heard. Corbett lands a light left jab on Fitz's face; Fitz counters on the jaw. Sharp fighting follows. Fitz is covered with blood and is fighting like a demon. Corbett shows the effect of the fast work.

Fitz is down on one knee, and takes the full limit of time. He is full of fight; but Corbett is slaughtering him with uppercuts. Corbett lands one that is a bit wild. He has missed many well intended blows. Fitz looks the worst hand is puffing.

Seventh round—Corbett forces the fight, but misses left hand swing Fitz gets a hard upper cut on the chin. Both are looking for a knock-out. Corbett ducks one left hand swing. Fitz looks like a stuck ball, but is strong as Corbett.

Eight round—Fitz forces the fighting and a sharp exchange follows but no damage is done. Corbett ducks a right hand cross. Fitz has the worst of the round when gong sounds.

Round nine—Both men are very active on their feet. Fitz strikes Corbett below the belt, and is cautioned by Siler. Fitz's blows seem to be more effective than Corbett's now.

Round ten—Fitz spits blood out of his mouth, and tries to left Corbett. Sharp fighting follows. Fitz is bleeding liberally, but is game. He grabs Corbett around the neck and gets a stiff punch.

Forces Jim to Corner.

Eleventh round—Sharp fighting began at once. Fitz has the best of the roughing it, and forces Corbett to his corner, and has him weak as the gong sounds.

Round twelve—Corbett rushes in but misses. He forces Fitz to the ropes and smashes him in the short ribs. This was Corbett's round.

Round thirteen—Honors were quite even in this round. Corbett has his fist in Fitz face as the gong sounds.

Fourteenth round—Fitz's leads are blocked by Jim who lands on Fitz's head. Fitz countered with a terrible right hand swing on Corbett's neck and punches him on stomach. Corbett goes to his knees with frightened look on his face. Time is counted 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10. Corbett jumps to his feet.

Siler declares that Fitz wins.

SCENES OF TERROR AT POINTS SOUTH

FLOODS SPREADING IN ARKANSAS AND TENNESSEE.

Waters of the Mississippi Continue Steadily to Rise—Hundreds of Lives in Peril—Situation in Southeastern Missouri is Serious—Some Other Storm News.

Memphis, Tenn., March 17.—The Mississippi river at Memphis gauges a fraction over 36.5 feet, a rise of one-tenth since Tuesday morning.

Two lives are known to have been lost during the day. Two negroes who live near Marion, Ark., attempted to cross Mound Lake in a dugout, when they were caught in the mighty current, their boat was capsized, and they were swept away.

The change in the situation in the past twenty-four hours has been decidedly for the worse in every respect so far as the flood and flood victims are concerned. Localities that were expected up to the last moment to withstand the overflow are at last under water. People who thought they were safe from the angry river find themselves hemmed in and their danger is the greater because of the confidence that prevented them from providing against them.

From every direction come reports of unexpected and unprecedented disaster.

Many rumors of wholesale drowning are current, but these cannot be verified. The conditions are undoubtedly such that there will be innumerable fatalities before long, unless the helpless ones are relieved. Intense interest in the floods animates everybody in the city.

IN SOUTHEASTERN MISSOURI.

Floods Will Make Railroads Abandon Their Lines.

St. Louis, Mo., March 17.—In southeastern Missouri, on the Mississippi river, Bird's Point is almost entirely inundated and the Cotton Belt and Iron Mountain railways will probably have to abandon their trains into that place. Twelve miles below Osceola, Ark., the levee broke and the flood is doing great damage in that section. At Tyler, thirteen miles below Caruthersville, there are ten families on a sawdust pile for protection, having been driven from their homes. At Cottonwood, nine miles below Caruthersville, the water is in nearly all houses. At Gayoso, six miles above Caruthersville, the water is all over the town and from three inches to two feet deep in the houses.

Heavy Rain in Louisiana.

Shreveport, La., March 17.—A heavy rainfall visited this section of the state, causing several washouts on the different railroads entering this city and sending Red river on a booming rise. Although the present gauge of the river does not indicate that there is any present likelihood of a serious and damaging overflow, which would inundate the farm lands not protected by the levee, yet the planters are beginning to grow apprehensive as to the rain continuing and the river, both at this station and above, is rising rapidly.

River Is Rising Slowly.

Helena, Ark., March 17.—The river stands at 45.6 on the gauge here and is rising slowly and is now within two feet six inches of high-water mark. While there is no apparent danger of overflow at this point the levee boards are making the necessary arrangements for properly guarding the levees night and day.

North Dakota Snows Melting.

Minneapolis, Minn., March 17.—Specials from Bismarck and other western North Dakota points state that the snow is rapidly melting under chinook winds. This will probably save the lives of many thousands of cattle that were dying from cold and hunger.

Evansville High and Dry.

Evansville, Ind., March 17.—There has been a slight fall in the river since Monday. Evansville is high and dry and nothing is heard about the flood. The only inconvenience here on account of the flood is to railroad traffic.

No Alarm at Greenville.

Greenville, Miss., March 17.—There is nothing in the river situation in the Yazoo-Mississippi delta to cause alarm. The stage of the river at Greenville is nearly six feet below the high water mark of 1892.

Educators at Bloomington, Ill.

Bloomington, Ill., March 17.—The members of the national education conference, were welcomed Tuesday night, in the First Methodist church, by ex-Vice-President Stevenson and ex-Gov. Fifer. A number of responses were given. Education and business and the educational policy of the Methodist church were the themes of addresses made.

Canadian Mills Close Down.

Montreal, Canada, March 17.—The Montreal rolling mills company has closed most of its shops, throwing 400 men out of employment. The general manager states that this action is due to the uncertainty as to the tariff changes.

WARFARE IN CUBA IS VERY CRUEL

SPANISH TROOPS SLAUGHTERED WITH DYNAMITE.

Insurgents Blow Up a Train on a High Trestle in Pinar del Rio—Prisoners Captured Are Returned to the Spanish Lines—War News.

New York, March 17.—A Havana special to the World says that a train carrying Spanish troops was blown up by dynamite while passing over a deep gorge south of Candelaria, Pinar del Rio province, and that nearly 250 soldiers were killed or injured. The locomotive and six cars were demolished.

This occurred about March 10. The Spanish general, Arrial, had learned of a projected insurgent attack on San Cristobal, and he sent off 500 troops in armored cars to reinforce the garrison there.

About ten miles from San Cristobal the road crosses a deep gorge on a very high bridge, about 500 feet long. The insurgents, learning of the departure of the train, lined the bridge at the bends and the center with heavy charges of dynamite, connecting the explosives by wires with a battery in the woods some distance off. Three hundred insurgents lay in ambush near by. Captain John Lynn, the young American electrical engineer, who has made himself famous in Cuba for his work on the dynamite gun, contrived the affair.

The train approached the bridge about 3 o'clock in the morning. When fully on it all three charges were exploded by the wires. The engine and cars flew into the air like so many chips, and fell into the deep gorge below, crushing dead and injured alike. There the wreckage caught fire.

As soon as the explosion occurred the insurgents dashed out from under cover and opened fire.

But for the timely hoisting of a white flag by Colonel Mores, who was in command of the Spanish forces, every man would have been massacred. As it was the Cubans secured 300 prisoners, including ten officers. The private soldiers were released and sent to San Cristobal, the officers were retained as hostages for twenty-five insurgents who are held at Artemisa and threatened with death.

The Spaniards here admit the dynamiting of the train, but claim that the details are exaggerated.

Want High Tariff on Lumber.

Grand Rapids, Mich., March 17.—Representatives of fifty or sixty lumber and shingle mills in western and northern Michigan, claiming to cut $70,000,000 feet of lumber and $800,000,000 shingles and to employ 1,350 men, met here Tuesday and adopted a memorial, addressed to Senator Morrill, urging a high tariff on lumber. The memorial demands a duty on rough lumber of at least $2 per 1,000 and on shingles of 35 cents.

Complications Over the Bermuda.

Washington, March 17.—An interesting complication seems likely to arise in the near future between the British Embassy and the Spanish Legation here over the filibustering steamer Bermuda. The Bermuda is a British vessel. She is believed to be liable under the British foreign enlistment act rather than the American neutrality laws, and therefore the British and Spanish diplomats here, it is expected, will exchange notes on the subject.

Famine Relief Work Efficient.

Lucknow, March 17.—The special representative of the Associated Press has completed an exhaustive tour of the Northwest. In an area of 400 by 200 miles 1,750,000 persons are receiving governmental relief. Owing to the government's timely grasp of the situation the correspondent did not discover a single instance of death from starvation during the whole tour.

Secretary Treasurer G. E. Le Grande reported the financial condition of the organization as healthy.

Many Bills Are Presented.

Washington, March 17.—In the senate Tuesday 438 bills and eight joint resolutions were introduced. They embraced nearly every phase of public business. Mr. Morgan reintroduced the Nicaragua canal bill before the last congress, and also a joint resolution to abrogate the Clayton-Bulwer treaty.

TROOPS MOVING IN THE EAST. A POLICEMAN SHOT

Greeks Massing Their Forces on the Frontier of Thessaly.

Athens, March 17.—It is the general belief here that nothing now can prevent war, and that the government has its plan of campaign fully prepared. The cabinet had a long session yesterday as to the attitude to be taken in face of the coercive programme of Europe, and it is reported that a decision was reached to take active measures as being the only solution possible for Greece.

The center of interest is now transferred from Crete to the Macedonian frontier. It is evident, from the haste which the government has displayed in getting all its available troops off by sea before the commencement of the blockade, that there is a strong conviction that they will be needed at once.

The Greek army in Thessaly will be formed in two divisions and the command given to Crown Prince Constantine. The Greek forces in Epirus are now greatly superior to the Turks, though the latter are being re-enforced with all haste.

Since the publication in the semi-official press of the exposition of Count Muraviev's Cretan policy, which appeared at the moment when it was most calculated to influence the French government, the feeling of the public press of Greece has been one of the fiercest resentment toward Russia.

London, March 17.—According to a Vienna dispatch to the Times there is some curiosity manifested in Austrian official circles as to whether the programme of the powers is to hold good in the event of an outbreak of war in Macedonia. The porte has been encouraged, it is said, by several of the great powers, to send large bodies of troops to districts along the Greek frontier, and there is no doubt that, in the event of war, the Turks would be allowed to deal with the Greeks without fear of European intervention.

SALISBURY TALKS OF CRETE.

Great Britain's Premier Explains the Policy of the Powers.

London, March 17.—In the house of lords the marquis of Salisbury, replying to the earl of Kimberley, the liberal leader, said that instructions had been given to the admirals in command of the foreign fleets in Cretan waters to commence the blockade of the island of Crete without further delay.

The vessels belonging to the British Mediterranean squadron now at Malta have been instructed to sail immediately for the island of Crete to re-enforce the British squadron now in those waters.

Greek Troops to Stay.

Canea, Island of Crete, March 17.—Col. Vassos has transferred his headquarters to Sphakia, the most mountainous and inaccessible position in the island. This is held to indicate that Greece is firmly resolved not to recall her troops—a step which is regarded as impossible in face of the strong national feeling. Col. Vassos will strongly fortify his new camp, which is situated for several months. He is now able to await the progress of events.

Crete Not Yet Blockaded.

Canea, Island of Crete, March 16.—The admirals of the foreign fleets have not yet proclaimed the blockade of the island of Crete, as decided upon by the powers. The Greek squadron, with the exception of two vessels, has left Cretan waters and the two vessels referred to are preparing to leave.

Weavers Return to Work.

Philadelphia, Pa., March 17.—The cloth weavers employed in John and James Dobson's big mill, who struck about ten days ago because of a 10 per cent reduction, returned to work Tuesday, a satisfactory agreement having been reached with Mr. Dobson. The feeders who went out at the same time because of a reduction of $1 a week are still out. They were offered a return of one-half the reduction, but refused to accept it.

To Be Solicitor-General.

FOR POISONING HER HUSBAND.

Charge On Which a Seymour Woman Is Placed In Jail.

Appleton, Wis., March 17.—A message from Seymour says there is great excitement in that city over a reported murder which occurred last November, but which has just been unearthed. Mrs. Pauline Pastorski of Hofer park, near Seymour, has been arrested and sent to the county jail under the charge of poisoning her husband. Peter Pastorski died under suspicious circumstances November 14, and last week the remains were exhumed. Mrs. Fuller and Hittner of Seymour held a post mortem examination and after examination the stomach and liver of the dead man were given to the town clerk for safe keeping. A coroner's jury was summoned, and upon the verdict of the jury Mrs. Pastorski was charged with the crime. No motive has yet been assigned for the deed, but startling developments are expected in a few days.

Appleyard, also of Boston.

Thomas, D. H. Moffat and twenty-five other Colorado men. The meeting was held behind closed doors.

Allen Bill in Michigan.

Lansing, Mich., March 17.—The failure of the Corlies immigration bill to pass congress over Cleveland's veto has caused a lively interest to be taken in Senator Lawrence's bill providing that no alien shall be employed in the public service of the state nor by any private citizen, nor may he enter into a contract to work for either until he has signified his intention to become a citizen of this country. Stiff fights will be put up by both the friends and opponents of the bill.

Investigation Will Be Ordered.

Springfield, Ill., March 17.—Three weeks ago the house republican caucus appointed a committee with Mr. Aderon as chairman to draft a resolution to be presented to the house providing for an investigation of the causes of the existing deficit in the state treasury. BOB FITZSIMMONS.
The New Champion.

the police grabbed him, and he was carried off to jail.

Fitzsimmons was the first man to appear, and the crowd cheered him. He wore a Japanese bath robe, and was bare headed.

Corbett appeared soon after the Cornishman, and was also cheered.

JAMES J. CORBETT.

Behind Corbett are Charley White, Jeffries, McVey, Joe Corbett, Billy Woods and Al. Hampton.

In Fitzsimmons' corner are Martin Julian, Ernest, Roeder, Stelzner and Hickey.

Billy Madden announced the timekeepers, and Fitzsimmons talks with people near the ropes, while Corbett, does a "jig" step in his corner.

Billy Mouldoon greeted Fitz, saying "How are you?" Fitz replied, "Oh, bloody fine." Madden then introduced Referee Siler, and the men proceeded to strip. Fitz looked thin, but was one bunch of muscle.

Corbett looked at least fifteen pound heavier, and his skin looks as if it had been polished.

The men then put on the gloves. Fitz refused to shake hands, and time was called at 12:07 p. m.

The Fight Begins.

First round—The men sparred for an opening. Fitz forced Corbett to counter, and tries a left hand swing, which Corbett cleverly ducked. Fitz landed a light one on Corbett's neck. Jim feints, and lands a left hand hook on Fitz's stomach. This was followed with a left hand hook on Fitz's jaw. The men clinch but no damage was done in the break away. Sharp exchanges followed, and as the gong sounded, each got a hard rap.

Second round—Corbett forces the fighting. He is very cautious, and is looking for an opening. The fighting was fast and furious, Corbett jabbing Fitz right and left. The gong sounds before much damage is done.

Third round—Corbett starts in with a hard left hand hook on the body;

S. C. CARR LECTURES ON EUROPEAN TRIPENTERTAINING ADDRESS WAS HEARD LAST NIGHT.

Showed Conclusively That the Speaker Was a Close Observer, and Was Delightfully Informal - Presbyterians Celebrate - Caledonian Social - Athletes in Competition - Other Events.

Hon. S. C. Carr, one of Rock county's best known farmers, told Janesville people of his recent trip to Europe, at All Souls church last evening, the lecture being under the auspices of the Woman's Relief Corps. While the attendance was not large, owing to other events occurring at the same time, those present enjoyed a rare treat.

Mr. Carr's trip covered twelve thousand miles. That he had observed closely during the journey was apparent. He described the scenery in a graphic manner, and told of the customs of the people with whom he came in contact. A burial at sea was described in detail, and, in fact, Mr. Carr showed conclusively that nothing of profit had escaped him during his journey under foreign suns.

From Europe Mr. Carr turned to America. Americans, he said, should see the sights of their own country before they crossed the line deep. There were wonders to be seen in the United States that Europe could not equal. As an instance, he said that Devil's Lake was a spot that could not be seen in any of the countries that he had visited, and there were many other places in this country that were of more interest than any of the sights of Europe.

In closing Mr. Carr said that he had quite a few souvenirs that he had collected during his journey, and at the conclusion of the lecture they were shown to the people present.

Mr. Carr's lecture was delightful in its informality, and covering as it did, so wide a range, it was greatly enjoyed. Municipal Judge M. M. Phelps presided, and at the close of the lecture a vote of thanks was given Mr. Carr.

MADISON LIKED THE LECTURE

Newspaper Says Kind Words For Rev. Victor E. Southworth.

Rev. Victor E. Southworth delivered a lecture in Madison on Monday evening of this week and the Madison Democrat says: "The lecture by Rev. Victor E. Southworth of Janesville, in the Unitarian church last evening, on Walt Whitman, was a literary treat to which generalization cannot do justice. Mr. Southworth is a vigorous and fluent speaker and full of enthusiasm for his subject. His lecture is the fruit of three years of constant and sympathetic study of Whitman, whom he styled the most American of our poets and in his opinion, the greatest. Whitman's teaching, he said, were morally sound and sublime if correctly interpreted. Criticism is coming to an appreciation of one who has suffered to long at the hands of purvey judges with whom mere jingle or literal interpretation are too often the criteria. He interspersed his talk with copious selections from the eccentric poet's writings. Whitman was not an atheist. He was a pantheist, and while his teachings regarding a future life may not be clear, it was certainly most real and consoling to him."

Will Drain the Marshes and Go Into the Business Quite Extensively—Has a Fine Herd of Cattle Some Other News From About Rock County.

Hanover, March 16—Judge Phelps was in Hanover last Thursday. He has a large dairy and stock farm one-half mile southeast of this place on which is one of the finest herds of the Holstein cattle to be found in the state. People from other states often come here to buy cattle from him, and some of them have even gone to Mexico City in Old Mexico. Mr. Phelps has also been experimenting for the last few years with celery raising and the celery raised by him last year is said to be much superior to the Kalamazoo celery. He is now making preparations for putting in irrigating works and expects to raise several acres the coming season. Emory Dunbar received $3.95 per hundred for a car load of hops shipped to Chicago last Saturday. Master Paul Ehringer gave a birthday party on the 14th to his playmates about thirty being present and report a very enjoyable time. The Hanover Cornet Band will give a musical and dramatic entertainment at Hanover hall on the evening of March 18, for the purpose of raising funds to buy uniforms. The price of admission is only 10 and 15 cents, and we hope the patronage will be liberal as they have been to much expense in one way and another, and have not received as much encouragement as they deserve.

A Bouquet of Spring Beauties.

It is an odd title perhaps, but an appropriate name for first offering of spring goods. There is an array of spring loveliness in this store that is heart warming, like the first sunburst after a storm, you'll forget bleak winter and forgive its frosts because it is followed by such sweets as these first harbingers of spring.

A Sensible Spring
Precaution

Is a MACKINTOSH and UMBRELLA. Thus prepared you may defy the changeable spring time. Time was when these simple wet-weather protectors cost so much that we couldn't all afford them. They are a luxury no longer. Progress in manufacture and our prices place them within the reach of all.

Grand Opening--

ON WEDNESDAY, MARCH 17, we will have a formal opening of our large showings of spring goods. In connection, the agent of a prominent Philadelphia manufacturer will be at the store, and display the newest things in silk waists, spring jackets, separate skirts and two-piece suits in three styles: The boeiro, Eaton and coat effects. It will be an excellent opportunity to become familiar with fashions for spring. The store will be appropriately trimmed and an orchestra will lend inspiration.

FOR DECENT JOURNALISM.

The rapidity with which libraries and other institutions having among their aims the intellectual advancement of the community, are casting out the New York World and Journal and similar exponents of "yellow" journalism is more than a cause for professional congratulation. It argues the existence and growth of a resentment against these vehicles of evil and filth which must extend to the home as well—and it is in the home that the greatest danger from such publications is to be found. It is the effect upon the minds of children of their brazen depravity and insidious presentation of immorality that is most to be dreaded, as laying the foundation of untold misfortune and criminal bias when temptation is encountered in the future. Therefore every new record of public expulsion is important as signifying, in addition, an unseen private reputation.

A WELCOME INNOVATION.

One good thing about President McKinley, he is neither too aristocratic or too timid to be seen walking alone in the streets of Washington like any other honest man. He doesn't hesitate to exercise his right to do so either, and for the first time in four years the people are enabled to witness the spectacle of the nation's chief executive going where he pleases in the avenues of the capital without the accompaniment of armed guards to protect him from imaginary dangers. This innovation upon the custom which has prevailed for the last four years is both startling and refreshing. The people like it too, for it is an implied expression of confidence in their respect for law and authority, which they never received from the chief of the late administration.

PROFIT FOR FARMERS.

Wisconsin cannot afford to delay in the good roads cause. Even in southern states, where the spirit of enterprise is not very strong the movement in favor of improved highways is making decided headway. Thirty counties of North Carolina have taken hold of the work and will spend an aggregate of $100,000 this year in the construction of improved highways. The result of this experiment, for which North Carolina deserves high credit, will be to convince the people of that state that such investments are enormously profitable. Good roads mean better values in land, larger returns for agricultural products, easier access to markets and a constant inducement to immigration. That this practical movement should gain a solid foothold in Wisconsin is devoutly to be hoped.

PLAIN AND TO THE POINT.

President McKinley succeeded remarkably in voicing the will of the people. His message was plain, matter-of-fact and direct. As long as he follows this course he will make no mistake.

It is evident that the president believes in keeping close to the people. He is one of them. We have had no president whose election more directly reflected the triumph of their power. Upon the maintenance of relations of mutual trust and co-operation between him and them depends the whole success of the administration so auspiciously begun. And it is fortunate indeed that the president, at the very outset, has adopted practical methods by which those relations may be preserved and strengthened.

TO THE MOON, 38 MILES.

Such Will Seem the Distance Through Paris' New Telescope.
The huge block of crystal which will become the mirror for the great telescope has safely arrived in Paris, says a Paris dispatch to the London News. If all goes well the exhibition of 1900 will be able to boast of a distinct feature. Whether the moon's features will be equally distinct is another question. Prof. Loewy thinks not, but M. Deloncle is still determined to carry through his idea. "The moon one yard off." It was thus the scheme of the gigantic telescope was spoken of in the papers, but M. Deloncle, however ambitious he may be in Central Africa, protests that he never had so preposterous a notion. He claims that it will be possible to throw on to a screen views of our satellite brought within a distance of thirty-eight miles. This remains to be seen. However, everybody will wish M. Deloncle, and still more especially his shareholders, every success in what one must still regard as an experiment.

The new telescopic mirror is the largest ever made. It was cast at Jeumont, a manufacturing place, and the last French station on the line to Liege, Cologne and Berlin. This splendid block of homogeneous crystal weighs 3,000 kilograms. Its diameter is 2.05 meters, and in its present nearly rough state it cost £4,000. Of course, it was conveyed to Paris in a special train. It was wrapped up in heavy felt blankets, protected by hoops of soft wood, with metal tires, mounted on pivots. Thus packed, the mirror was tightly wedged in a case that was placed in the wagon on a bed of hurdles and layers of hay. For greater safety, the train stopped only once, at Tergnier, and went at as slow a pace as a royal train, escorted by a railway inspector. It was insured to its full value. The same afternoon it was removed from the northern terminus to the workshop. The mirror, before leaving Jeumont, went through a second grinding of its faces, being as smooth as fine plate-glass. But for telescopic purposes this sort of smoothness is roughness itself. The finishing process will take two years and six months, by more expeditious processes than any hitherto in use, which, moreover, will give greater accuracy than anything known. Hitherto astronomical mirrors and lenses have been polished by hand by slowly rubbing the glass with the naked hand, sometimes, but not always, moistened with oil, albumen and other substances which are the maker's secret. The drawback of this process is that the mere heat of the hand may cause the surface to warp. The new mechanical process, of which particulars are not given, will produce a surface approaching a true plane, within 1-10,000 part of a millimeter. Even this marvelous finish will leave a margin, astronomers tell us, for errors. The whole finishing process will cost £6,000. The silvering will not cost anything to speak of. The mirror will be mounted on two arms ten meters long and will be set in motion by machinery of the usual sort. The rays gathered from planetary space will be reflected horizontally through a mammoth tube sixty meters long, laid on piles of masonry. The lenses of flint and crown glass will be one meter twenty-five centimeters, the largest in the world, and the images, enlarged 6,000 times, will be thrown onto a screen which thousands of people will view at a time. The moon will, if all goes well, be brought within thirty-eight miles, but it is most doubtful whether images on this scale will prove correct. Mr. Loewy, the assistant director of the Paris observatory, who has submitted some splendid photographs of the moon, believes that the limit of ninety-four miles he has reached is the utmost practicable for a long time to come. Larger images will be indistinct.

Proper Position for Sleep.

There are several theories of the proper position in sleep. The one most commonly favored is that one should sleep on the right side, as digestion goes on in this position more favorably. Other authorities say that one should always lie on the back, but there are excellent reasons why this is not wise. The weight of the stomach and its contents rests upon the spine, which often affects the nerves. Some severe cases of insomnia have been cured by the habit of sleeping on the face. This is easy to do, and it is the most comfortable position if one dispenses with the pillow. One young man who had exhausted all the skill of the doctors fell into the habit of lying on his face, with his right arm under his head, which was turned slightly to one side. By this change natural rest soon came to him, and he entirely recovered.—Chicago Herald.

THE FOX.

Foxes may or may not enjoy a run before hounds, but there is one thing they enjoy that may not be generally known, and that is a sun bath. While it is true that one rarely overtakes a fox asleep by the wayside, nevertheless it is a matter of fact that foxes are very fond of taking naps in the open in the daytime. Reynard is no house bird. He loves the open air and the freedom of the fields. Whenever he is caught taking a fitful day nap, he is usually found reclining at full length on the warm flat face of a sunny rock in an old pasture, remote from human habitations, or curled on the ground in a round, clear opening among clumps of bushes. But he is an extremely light sleeper, and at the rustle of a twig or the almost noiseless footfall of an intruder, or the faraway note of an oncoming pack, he is awake instantly and up and away with the soundless celerity of a retreating specter.—Ex.

Pebble-Like Beans.

A curious case of "mimicry" has been noticed on the coast near Manila, in the Philippine islands. The seeds of a bean fall among quartz pebbles, and so closely resemble them in shape, size, color, luster, hardness and stratification as to be distinguishable from them only by a very close examination. The beans range from a third of an inch to an inch in size, and vary greatly in shape, some resembling well-rounded beach pebbles and others mimicking pebbles that have been broken across. The color varies from dark to light drab, some with a greenish tinge, while others resemble pebbles of chalcedony or crystallized quartz. Nearly all show a series of dark bands, suggestive of stratification. All are hard, and clink when shaken together.—Rochester Democrat and Chronicle.

Inconsiderate.

First Lady—Do you see that man over there? Well, I want to tell you about him. He's a most insulting creature. I got into the electric car the other day, and he gave me his seat. After I had been seated, perhaps for a mile or so, he comes up to me and says he, "If you are rested, marm, I think I'll take my seat again." Second Lady—Mercy! What did you say? First Lady—Say? I said nothing; but I gave him such a look! Second Lady—And served him right. The presumption of the monster.—Boston Transcript.

CRAZY LADY CALLS FOR HELP AT NIGHT

CREATED SENSATION AT EUROPEAN HOTEL.

Locked the Door, and Then Yelled "Bloody Murder"—Was Enroute to Mendota, Her Insanity Being Due to a Long Continued Fit of Illness.

Piercing yells came from room No. 8 at the European hotel at 4 o'clock this morning and aroused the entire neighborhood. Landlord Mattick rushed up stairs and found the room was occupied by Mrs. Fred Paul on insane woman from Center.

In charge of friends Mrs. Paul arrived in the city yesterday afternoon being on her way to the hospital for the insane at Mendota. Her case was considered a mild one. She was taken to the European hotel opposite the Northwestern depot, to stay over night. The next morning she was to be joined by her husband.

Mrs. Paul retired at 10 o'clock and the door of her room was left open so that in case all was not well an investigation might easily be made. At about 4 o'clock this morning the unfortunate woman got out of bed and quietly closed and locked the door, and then began to yell:

"Help! Murder! Save Me!" An effort to force the door failed, and Landlord Mattick then climbed on top of the porch and peering into the window, saw the woman, in her night clothes standing in the center of the room yelling at the top of her voice. He finally made her understand that he wanted her to unlock the door and she obeyed the order. Friends who were in waiting then cared for her.

This morning she was joined by her husband and in charge of Sheriff Acheson the unfortunate woman was taken to Mendota on the 10:50 train. Mr. and Mrs. Paul are well known and resided near Center. They have four children. A few weeks ago Mrs. Paul began to show signs of mental trouble, her insanity being due to continued illness.

THEY MARK GOLDEN WEDDING

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Dewey Celebrated Quietly Today.

Fifty years ago this morning—March 17, 1847—Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Dewey were married in this city, and have ever since resided here. It is believed that they are the only couple now residing here whose marriage was celebrated in the city at so early a date.

Mrs. Dewey is the only remaining original member of the Congregational church, she having united with the church at its formation two years before her marriage, while Mr. Dewey enjoys the same distinction in Wisconsin Lodge No. 14, I. O. O. F., he being the only charter member. Mr. and Mrs. Dewey are passing the day very quietly, not inviting any guests on account of the recent death of their daughter, Mrs. Mira Dewey Tuttle, of Chicago.

THE STEAMBOAT IS UNLUCKY

The Arrow—Formerly the Billie Burr—In Trouble At Rockford.

The steamer Arrow which is now in use in Rockford once plied between this city and Burr Springs, being known as the "Billy Burr." The boat broke from its fastening at the Forest City on Monday last, and glided over the dam. The damage was slight, but the boat has always been rather unfortunate. When she was first put in service at this city she had met with various mishaps, and her builder was killed when the boat fell before it was launched. Ill luck followed the craft to Rockford, and many people insist that she is fated.

EGGS NOW SELL AT TEN CENTS

Winter Hen Fruit Sells at Summer Prices These Days.

For the first time in many a winter month eggs are selling as low as they did in the summer. In the local market eggs of the strictly fresh quality are now selling at ten cents a dozen. A number of the local grocers who have "wintered" large quantities of eggs in the hopes of getting high prices are now beginning to see their mistake. The general revival of business has encouraged even the hens.

MUST ENFORCE ORDINANCES.

The Police Must act on the Complaint of a Citizen.

The supreme court has decided that it is the duty of the officers to enforce the laws and ordinances and may be compelled to do so by due process of law on complaint of any citizen. This decision was rendered when the aldermen of Oshkosh neglected to revoke the license of a saloon keeper who sold liquor to a person who was on the black list.

A BOYS HARD FALL WHILE AT SCHOOL

TUMBLING FROM STAIRS TO GROUND.

Landing on His Head, He Suffered Concussion of the Brain, and is Now in a Critical Condition—Accident Happened at the Second Ward Building.

Suffering with concussion of the brain Willie McGinley, the six year old son of Mr. and Mrs. John McGinley, now lies in a critical condition at their home, as the results of a fall sustained this morning.

The little fellow, while playing with a number of his companions, accidentally fell from the top of the stairs at the Second ward school, landing at the bottom on the top of his head.

The accident happened at 8:45 o'clock this morning. Willie, along with a number of his companions, arrived at the school a half hour before school was called.

After making several attempts to slide down the bannisters, the little McGinley boy made a jump for the bannister and fell to the bottom, a distance of twelve feet, landing on his head.

In a partly unconscious condition he was carried to the residence of J. D. King and Dr. W. H. Palmer was called to attend him. He at once pronounced the boy's condition serious and he was removed to the North First street home of his parents.

This noon he was still in a dangerous condition and he was attended with frequent vomiting spells.

Ex-Mayor Thoroughgood's Proclamation. To the Voters of the City of Janesville—In making the following announcement, I do it as a citizen of Janesville who is close touch with everything pertaining to the welfare and good government of this city. I do not have the desire to enter the race for mayor and stand the usual annoyances, excitement, etc., consequent on nomination by caucus, and should hail with pleasure the passage of such a law as has been introduced in the present session of the legislature, thereby doing away with many of the unpleasant features as are usually practiced on these occasions.

After giving this matter my serious thought, I have decided to run this race alone, and am a candidate for the office of mayor on a citizen ticket. I do not feel swelled up in my own estimation nor do I presume in my fitness for the office over other of our citizens. This is simply a business proposition, prompted by many of my friends, and I therefore ask the suffrage of the voters of Janesville for the office of Mayor, promising you the same care and attention in the management of your affairs, as I give to my business. Yours Truly, JOHN THOROUGHGOOD.

PANSIES.

"I love almost all flowers that blow,"
Said dainty Kitty airily.
"But pansies, when your vase you fill,
They'll make you think 'tis winter chill
And fairly shiver just to see
How close and tight as they can be,
They creep, and creep and huddle so!"

"The very prettiest flowers that blow,"
Said Sally, "are the pansies dear.
Their little faces blink and wink,
They really seem almost to think,
And when in dish or vase they dwell
Their thoughts they must each other tell,
They cheek to cheek will cuddle so!"

A REPORTER'S YARN.

"I struck Mills to get off tonight, but it wouldn't go. I told him it was little Milly's birthday, and the youngsters had set their hearts on having me spend the evening with them. I couldn't touch him even with that. Said he was short handed and couldn't spare me. Confound these city editors! The good nature is all blue penciled out of them."

"You're always grumbling, Jim. If you don't like the little inconveniences of newspaper work, why don't you get into something else? It was your own desire to get on the police beat, and you ought to take all that goes with it good naturedly. Quit your growling and tell us a story by way of penance. We have a couple of hours before us yet."

Jim loved to tell a story. He had been a reporter for many years, most of the time on criminal, and he had an experience for nearly every day in the year. His face cleared, he refilled his pipe and struck his feet on the table. His three fellow morning paper men followed his example and amid the curls of smoke this is the story Jim told them:

"One morning about 15 years ago Richard Johnston of the firm of Johnston & Calvin, a very wealthy eastern lumber concern, was found dead in his office. He had told his wife the night before he wanted to look over the books, for things were not going quite to his satisfaction. The big ledger lay spread out on the desk, his face buried in its blood stained leaves. The head had been almost split in two, and the cut was so clean it was evident an ax had been the instrument used. The detectives went to work at once, and within 24 hours Fred Wilson had been arrested on suspicion. He was a cousin of the murdered man and had been out of work a long time. He had never been in any kind of trouble with the police, but he had a character for shiftlessness, and it was no secret that he and Johnston had had some words a few days before over a loan he had begged. He had been heard to say that a man who had heaps of money and would not help his relatives might better be dead. A glove was found in the office that was identified as his, and, to make the chain of circumstantial evidence complete he had paid a number of bills the very morning the murder was committed."

"His lawyers admitted their client had gone to the office, but denied any quarrel had taken place. The very reverse had happened, they claimed. Johnston had arranged the visit and had expressed his regrets for being so severe to his cousin, finally giving him money enough to clean up his debts and make a fresh start. This defense, in the opinion of the judge, the jury and the newspapers, was so daring that it was regarded as overshooting the mark. One jurymen, however, was a little doubtful and stood out for manslaughter in the first degree. The others yielded, the verdict was so rendered, and Wilson was sentenced for life. When asked if he had anything to say, he replied that he had told his story through his lawyers; that he still adhered to it, and that, if there was a just God above, its truthfulness would be proved some day. He went to prison and was forgotten."

"I tell you, boys, that case bothered me more than a little bit. I never at any time believed Wilson was guilty, strong as the evidence was. I had several talks with him, and he never wavered in his story, no matter how I tried to trip him up. I spent most of my leisure time following imaginary clues. It was no use, and I gave it up after a few months."

"Five years afterward Calvin, Johnston's partner, died suddenly, and, though obituaries were rather out of my line, for I was still doing criminal, I asked for the assignment on account of my previous interest in the firm. I had a hazy idea that Calvin had known more of the affair than he had pretended. On those lines I followed up my old hunt, and I was not a bit surprised to find out from one of the servant girls that a small bottle had been found in the hand of the dead man. I ran down that side of the story at the start and showed the doctor up in great shape, for he had given a certificate for heart failure, having been induced to do so by Calvin's friends. Then I wanted a picture, but the deuce a picture was to be had. Finally an old friend of Calvin's told me there was a large crayon of the lumberman in the lodgeroom where they met. Calvin had been one of the past presidents, and on retiring, shortly after the death of his partner, had presented the lodge with this picture, following a custom in vogue in that particular body. The man who told me of it was one of the trustees, and he offered to go to the room with me and let me have the portrait. I did not want, of course, to bother with the frame, so I proceeded to take out the back. While I was doing so the trustee looked for some wrapping paper, and I was alone. Talk about luck! Luck wasn't in it. I am not religious, as you know, but I have had a queer feeling about that affair ever since. I found a folded parchmentlike paper between the picture and the back, and you can bet I hustled it into my pocket darned quick."

"Just imagine, boys, how my heart beat until I got to my room. I wasn't married then. I locked the door and got out my precious paper. It was a combination will and confession, and the introduction was the strangest part of it. Calvin gave his reason for hiding it in the picture, and it was this: That while he had not the courage to expose his villainy, he was willing to leave it to Providence. If there was such a thing, he said, the matter would all come out even in the face of apparent impossibilities. Then followed the confession. He had been playing a crooked game with Johnston for years, but at last the senior partner had become suspicious and had started an investigation of the books himself. Ruin and disgrace confronted Calvin, and in a paroxysm of fear he had taken one of the keen fire axes, and, creeping behind the unfortunate man, split his head open with a blow. He lived next door and had no difficulty in getting to his house unnoticed, cleaning the ax and restoring it to its place on the wall on the way back. He never expected such luck as Wilson falling into a circumstantial evidence trap, and he let him go to prison without a quail. But his conscience or spirit, whatever you like to call it, couldn't stand the strain, and he fell back on morphine, both to quiet his nerves and furnish an excuse for the suicide he contemplated. He had tried in a small way to atone to Wilson's family by sending them, anonymously, money every month sufficient to keep them fairly comfortable. In the third clause of the document he bequeathed a handsome amount to the woman whom he had made worse than a widow. He left $10,000 to the wretched man he had allowed to go to a cell when he could have saved him with a word. Everything was straight as a die. There was not an ambiguous word in the document, and the signature was properly witnessed by the cashier and one of the clerks."

"I got back to the office without any more delay and wrote my story after I had given the city editor an outline of what I had. He just jumped out of his chair with delight and did a double shuffle in the excess of his exuberance. The boys thought he had suddenly gone mad, but he gave them no satisfaction, and I, too, kept my discovery to myself. He asked me what I was going to do with the confession. I told him my idea was to see the governor myself and secure poor Wilson's release. He said a fellow that brought in a story like that could do any damned thing he pleased."

"The governor happened to be in the city that day. When I told him my story, he started an investigation at once. He sent for the superintendent of police and the judge who had tried the case, an old friend of his. The man who had let me into the lodgeroom was also summoned to corroborate my statement, and letters written by Calvin were secured so the writing in the confession could be identified. Fortunately everything ran smoothly, and before 9 o'clock, with the concurrence of the judge, the governor decided on releasing the prisoner, giving as a double reason for his prompt action that the best way to redress the unavoidable wrong done Wilson was to give him his liberty without a moment's unnecessary delay."

"Then he sent for Mrs. Wilson and her two little girls. She came all in a tremble, as women say, for the officer had given her an inkling of what was going on. And the release—say, boys!"

Jim's voice broke. The boys refilled their pipes hastily and in the cloud of smoke that followed the next moment the tears that filled the eyes of the reporter who was supposed to be hardened to human misery were hidden in the wreaths that mounted to the blackened ceiling."

"It was a great scoop," one of the fellows said, "the greatest of the year." —George Brown in Detroit News-Tribune.

A Queer Priesthood.

The most extraordinary costume worn in religious ceremony is that of the priests of a hill tribe near Darjeeling, in India.

A photograph of a group of these peculiar priests has just been brought back from India. All of them wear masks of enormous size, painted in the most hideous manner, possibly by the priestly artists. The colors are chiefly bright red and yellow. The faces have strangely shaped noses, eyes and ears, and many other things are done to make them as striking as possible.

When all these priests are engaged in one of the elaborate ceremonies of their religion, the scene surpasses anything on the comic opera stage. The fierce hill men of Darjeeling are very much impressed by the sight of the representatives of their gods decked out in this fashion.

One mask indicates that its wearer represents the god who looks after the spears of the tribesmen and helps to drive them home. Another deity cares for the bows and arrows, etc. The warrior who hopes to do good work with any of these weapons must liberally propitiate the priests.

The hill men have a particularly great ceremony once a year, when, led by their priests, they go out on to the plain and indulge in warlike exercises, bidding defiance to all creation. The city of Darjeeling, being in the hills, is used to a considerable extent as a health station by British residents in India. The surrounding country, also called Darjeeling, is inhabited by a fierce race who are only kept in order by judicious treatment. Many of them have enlisted in the Anglo-Indian army. —San Francisco Examiner.

Gussie—Really, mamma, I don't know which one I love best—Reggy or Jack.

Mamma—Why not leave the choice to some competent judge?

Gussie—Some one versed in the arts of love?

Mamma—Dear, no! Some one well up in Bradstreet's.—New York Journal.

De Piles mentions a blind sculptor who, guided by the sense of touch alone, made a marble statue of Charles I of England. It is singular, however, that this sculptor is not mentioned, so far as is known, by any other writer, and the story may be apocryphal.

Polishing Cut Glass Too Much.

Great care should be taken with articles of cut glass, whether for table service or toilet use. The greatest mistake is made in attempting to use too high a polish, which, as a rule, many persons consider one of the chief beauties of this ware. Constant polishing reduces the exquisite finish which makes it appear so brilliant when new. In order to retain this brilliancy, let the article, when quickly cleaned, be allowed to dry alone after being properly rinsed. A soft linen towel should be used but little in the care of cut glass, and it will always be bright and sparkling. There is almost no Russian cut glass brought to this country, and it differs greatly from other makes in being dull and heavy. English and American glass are highly wrought, and new features are constantly in the market. American manufacturers frequently copy Russian patterns. A beautiful loving cup, richly cut, is among the newer importations of English glass.—New York Herald.

A New Tire Repair Device.

A new device for repairing punctures and cuts in tires is on the market and so far as theory goes seems one of the most perfect affairs of the kind attempted. It consists of a section of rubber of the kind used in the manufacture of a tire, to which is fastened eyelets at either end. The rider, seeking to repair a puncture, places this piece of rubber over the hole in his tire, draws it tightly and laces it securely with a stout cord passing through the eyelets. For temporary use this newly-conceived patch would carry a wheel many miles. —New York Telegram.

Wants It This Time.

"Hand over and be quick about it," said the "holdup," as he put a revolver to the head of the belated man.

"But you held me up last week and didn't get anything," remonstrated the victim.

"Well, hand over what I didn't get then!"

Dangers of the Grip.

The greatest danger from La Grippe is of its resulting in pneumonia. If reasonable care is used, however, and Chamberlain's Cough Remedy taken, all danger will be avoided. Among the tens of thousands who have used this remedy for a gripe, we have to learn of a single case having resulted in pneumonia, which shows conclusively that this remedy is a certain preventive of that dread disease. It will effect a permanent cure in less time than any other treatment. The 25 and 50 cent sizes for sale at C. D. Stevens' Pharmacy, Corner Main and Milwaukee streets.

From Cripple Creek.

After the big fire in Cripple Creek, I took a severe cold and tried many remedies without help, the cold only becoming more settled. After using three small bottles of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, both the cough and cold left me, and in this high altitude it takes a meritorious cough remedy to do any good.—G. B. Henderson, editor Daily Advertiser. For sale at C. D. Stevens' Pharmacy, Corner Main and Milwaukee streets.

Rheumatism Quickly Cured.

After having been confined to the house for eleven days and paying out $25 in doctor bills without benefit, Mr. Frank Dolsen of Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., was cured by one bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm costing 25 cents and has not since been troubled with that complaint. For sale at C. D. THE LEATHER TIRE.

A Cycling Authority Discusses Its Alleged Advantages and Disadvantages.

Leather tires, it is thought, can be made at less than one-quarter the cost of rubber tires. A single tube leather tire, we think, has never been contemplated. It would obviously be impossible to make one that would hold air effectually. As an outer covering for an inner tube of rubber the possibilities of leather are worth considering. It is quite impossible from any present knowledge of the subject to have any adequate opinion of the qualities of leather for tire-making purposes. There is reason in the supposition that an outer shoe of leather would be fairly durable provided care were taken to prevent it becoming hard and intractable under that influence of moisture to which every bicycle tire is subjected. Every one is familiar with the effect of water upon shoe leather. The shoe becomes horny and liable to crack unless some pains are taken to renew its pliability by oiling or otherwise. The point of resiliency in tires has been widely discussed. In the case of the rubber pneumatic it would seem that the elastic qualities of the material have something to do with resiliency without regard to the lively qualities of confined air. Either the leather tire would be a "dead" tire or else the popular idea that more or less "life" centers in the rubber itself is entirely erroneous. So far as we can judge, a leather tire would lack resiliency to a degree which would render it entirely inferior to the rubber tire. There is no question that a tire with a leather outer covering would be perfectly ridable and possess more or less of what we now consider the pneumatic quality, but elasticity at the point of contact, which, we believe, accounts in no small degree for the fine riding qualities of the rubber tire, would apparently be lacking, and, as previously said, bad effects of wetting would have to be looked after sharply to insure durability. However, we do not wish to wholly condemn the leather tire without a hearing. It has been announced that such tires will soon be manufactured in considerable quantities, and we await with interest their introduction to practical use.—American Cyclist.

THE DOCTOR'S LITTLE TRICK.

How He Got Substitutes for the Umbrellas He Had Lost.

Dr. J. P. Bliven, whom old New Yorkers will remember as a practicing physician of prominence twenty or thirty years ago, originated a novel scheme of acquiring umbrellas. Dr. Bliven had lost a great many umbrellas on his professional rounds and the expense of replacing them was making great inroads on his income. One night as he sat smoking in his office an idea occurred to him. He put it to a practical test the next day. He made two dozen calls that day. At every house he appeared to be in a hurry, and left on a run. Upon reaching his buggy he would stop suddenly and hurry back. Opening the door he would shout:

"Please send my umbrella down to the office. I'm in a hurry."

The next day he found fifteen umbrellas of various shapes, sizes and degrees of excellence piled up in his office. Only one of them did he recognize as his own. But he was well supplied for some time to come.—New York Sun.

A Bright-Eyed Flower Fey.

A London paper says that some time ago the Princess Maud went shopping strictly incog. While she was walking along the street she was accosted by a little street arab who was the happy possessor of a pair of large, pathetic brown eyes and a tangled crop of curly brown hair. He was busily engaged in the absorbing task of earning his living (and, perhaps, someone else's as well) by retailing "fresh spring flowers, penny and twopenny a bunch." The princess stopped by him, and, while choosing some flowers she was a little startled by the lad saying in an excited and familiar whisper: "It's all right, miss, I knows yer." The princess smilingly shook her head in denial. "Yes, I do knows yer" (more emphatically): "yes, Princess Maud, I twigged yer directly."

A Mistake.

Lawyer Lisner was attending court in a country town and stopped at the best hotel. At dinner he ordered, among other things, a cut of roast beef. When the waiter brought his dinner he forgot the beef.

"Where's the bovine?" asked Mr. Lisner.

"The which, sah?" asked the puzzled waiter.

"The bovine that I particularly ordered?"

The man picked up the menu and read it over carefully. Then he left the dining room with a troubled face, but soon returned.

"It's a mistake, sah," he said, blandly, "the cook says he ain't done serve no bovine to-day, sah."

Colors from Coal Tar.

Coal tar, formerly considered a waste and a regular nuisance to gas workers, is now carefully saved and utilized as one of the most valuable color producers. The chemists have extracted from it sixteen shades of blue, sixteen shades of yellow, twelve shades of orange and nine of violet, besides shades of other colors too numerous to mention.

A Piece of Parchment.

When unwritten on, is not more colorless than the cadaverous countenances of those unfortunate persons whom we are accustomed to call "confirmed invalids." What a misnomer! Implying, too, despair, a giving up for lost! As long as the vivifying power of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters can be felt, and that is possible so long as there is no absolute collapse of the faculties, fresh vitality can be infused into wasted, feeble frames: color and flesh can be brought back to wasted, pallid cheeks with this grand sheet anchor of the debilitated and the sickly. It is a tonic of the greatest potency and utmost purity, and a remedy for and preventive of dyspepsia, biliousness, rheumatic nervous and kidney complaints. Appetite and sleep are greatly aided by it; it counteracts the effects of undue fatigue or excitement, and nullifies the often perilous consequences of exposure to inclement weather or damp clothing.
